Less than two weeks after a disputed internal poll showed Jon Runyan with a big advantage over challenger and former Cherry Hill Democratic councilwoman Shelley Adler, the first independent poll in the 3rd District House of Representatives race indicates it's closer than Runyan's pollsters indicated.

While Runyan still has a double-digit lead, according to the poll from the Richard Stockton College of New Jersey Polling Institute, it's just 10 points, rather than the 16-point gap found by private polling firm McLaughlin & Associates.

Runyan, the freshman Republican, polled 49 percent to Adler's 39 percent, with 12 percent of those polled still undecided.

"Candidate Adler still has an opportunity to close the lead on Runyan, though Runyan is clearly in a better position," said Daniel J. Douglas, director of the William J. Hughes Center for Public Policy.

The poll of 614 likely voters, conducted from Sept. 28 to Oct. 4, shows that while only 10 percent of voters approve of Congress performance and 87 percent rate his performance as fair or poor.

Adler faces an uphill battle after redistricting carved Cherry Hill her decidedly Democratic home base out of the 3rd. The resulting district, which now includes Republican-majority Brick Township, is split close to even in registered Republicans and Democrats, but leans Republican overall.

While Monmouth University political scientist and pollster Patrick Murray told PolitickerNJ, the race is the closest of all those in the state this year, it's not looking like the 50-47 split it was when Runyan defeated Adler's late husband in 2010.

"It's not anywhere near the tight race of two years ago," Murray told PolitickerNJ.

In the other races, Democratic incumbent Menendez leads Republican challenger Joseph Kyrillos 18()8..1(e)-a03.8(th)45.a 6(en)4603(in)4445(i)-6.7(n)46-a03.8oe46

Democratic incumbent Obama leads Republican challenger Mitt Romney by a margin of 49 to 41 percent.

Those surveyed also rated Gov. Chris Christie's job performance, with 50 percent rating it as excellent or good and 48 percent rating his performance as fair or poor, but his overall favorability rating remains over 50 percent, at 51 percent. Fifty-seven percent of those surveyed viewed him somewhat or very favorably, and 40 percent view him somewhat or very unfavorably.

The poll was conducted via both cell phone and landline, and has a margin of error of +/- 4 percent, the college said. Those conducting the polls called from the Stockton College campus, the college said. All households on the source calling list have the same opportunity of being called because of the random digital dialing system (RDD).
